ALLEGED MURDERERS OF PUBLISHER ON TRIAL JUNE 28

WIFE, DAUGHTER AND OTHERS ARE INDICTED AND PLEAD NOT GUILTY

(United Press)

Cleveland, Ohio, June 11—The trial of Mrs. Eva Catherine Kaber and her daughter Miss Marion McArdle on the charge of first degree murder in connection with the killing of Dan F. Kaber, wealthy Lakewood publisher, today was set for June 28.

Mrs. Kaber and Miss McArdle pleaded not guilty, when arraigned in common pleas court. Two more women were to be formally charged with murder in the Kaber case today.

One woman known as the Sandusky midwife, and who has been in custody over a week, was to be charged with murder as an accessory. Police allege that she provided Mrs. Dan Kaber with the "medicine" which was put in the food of her husband, a wealthy publisher, to cure him of habits she disliked.

Kaber was stabbed to death on June 18, 1919. The autopsy showed he had been stabbed in the hip and abdomen twenty four times and that arsenic had been put in his food for a period of weeks before he was murdered.

Secession Illegal of Minnesota Union from American Society of Equity

(By United Press)

St. Paul, June 11—The Minnesota union of the United Farmers of America illegally seceded from the American Society of Equity, Judge J. C. Michael ruled in district court today.

As a result, ten of the eleven directors of the state organization must pay $880.60 dues to the American Society of Equity, the amount sued for, and the union of the United Farmers of America is restrained from calling itself "successors to the American union of the American union of the American Society of Equity."

The state branch of the equity society voted in April last year to secede.

SPARROW AT SERVICE

Bird in Church When Service Was Going On.

Emulation of St. Francis of Assisi, who 700 years ago preached to birds and called them "little brothers and sisters," is being practiced at Springfield, Ill., involuntarily by Rev. E. G. Sandmeyer, pastor of Laurel M. E. church, who for the third time the other day had birds in the audience. Recently a common sparrow flew in at the doorway while the audience was bowed in prayer. It perched on an electric light fixture and sat there until singing commenced, then chirped and flew to another fixture. It remained throughout the service and departed through a window.

This same bird, it is believed, made its first visit some weeks ago. Two weeks ago it returned with a mate. The other day it was alone. Doctor Sandmeyer indicated he was not entirely pleased with the visits, as they had a tendency, he said, to distract the attention of the congregation.

Railroad Has Cut Dining Car Prices.

Reductions of from 15 to 25 per cent in dining car charges have been announced by the Great Northern railroad, which has also declared it will put into effect this year special summer tourist passenger rates at reductions of from 20 to 25 per cent.

More Than 2 Men for Each Position.

The unemployment situation has become so acute in cities in Illinois that the ratio of applicants for jobs is now more than two and one-half to one in the larger cities, according to official figures.

How Rainfall is Recorded.

The government gauge for recording rainfall consists of a cylinder two feet high, eight inches in diameter, upon which a funnel of the same diameter fits. Within that is a brass cylinder of the same height, the diameter a little over two and one-half inches. In it is a measuring tube, the area of which compared with the area of the funnel is as ten to one, so that when a one-hundredth of an inch falls in the funnel it becomes one-tenth of an inch in the measuring tube.

VIRGIL DECKER GETS LIFE SENTENCE

HIS MOTHER BREAKS DOWN AND WEEPS WHEN TOLD—IS INDICTED FOR SAME OFFENSE

(United Press)

WARSAW, June 11—Mrs. Lydia Decker broke down and wept in her cell here today when informed her 18 year old boy Virgil had been sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of his chum, Leroy Lovett.

She and two other sons, Fred and Calvin, are awaiting trial on the same charge. They were indicted jointly with Virgil.

"Oh my God," she sobbed. She made no other exclamation.

The state planned today to ask for an early trial of Mrs. Decker, Fred and Calvin in an effort to bring the insurance murder case to a close. It is presumed the state will follow the same line of attack in the subsequent trial as that of Virgil that a plot existed between the four to identify Lovett's body as that of Virgil and collect $24,000 life insurance which Virgil carried.

Virgil sat stoically in a cell telling the brothers of his trial. They drew the story from him, the boy apparently thinking it was not of enough importance to talk about.

Last night after the jury had found Virgil guilty and fixed the penalty he was taken back to jail.

RUSH ON TO A NEW GOLD FIELD

(By United Press)

The Pas, Manitoba, June 11—The expected gold rush to the Elbow Lake region is on. Within the next few months hundreds of prospectors will invade the district where it is said a huge vein of gold has been found. Prospectors returning here said the vein was sixty feet wide and free gold was scattered about.

Minnesota Delegation Opposed to Duty on Finished Lumber

(By United Press)

Washington, June 11—Incensed at the action of the republicans on the ways and means committee in agreeing to a twenty-five per cent advance on duty on finished lumber, the Minnesota delegation in congress today decided to protest against it to President Harding.

They will ask the President to intervene on the ground that such tariff duty will wreck the party, members of the delegation said.

Representative Anderson was appointed to arrange for the conference with Harding.

Anything to Please.

Adv. Wanted—Girl for general housework, one old kind; family of three adults. Nice, large, airy room; no washing nor much of anything else to do. Last girl quit because we invited some relatives to help us celebrate Patriots' day. Next Patriots' day, if the girl demands it, we will disown our relatives and renounce our country.—Boston Transcript.

SOLDIER ADJUSTED COMPENSATION BILL IS VERY MUCH ALIVE

NO GIFT TO SOLDIERS, BUT ADJUSTED PAY RIGHTFULLY SAYS SENATOR

(By United Press)

Washington, June 11—The soldier bonus bill is dead. The soldier "adjusted compensation bill" is very much alive and likely to become a law.

Senator McCumber of North Dakota, chairman of the senate subcommittee which worked out the provision of the bill, issued an appeal today for the use of the new name.

"It is not a bonus or gift to the ex-service men," declared McCumber. "It is distinctly a bill to pay veterans of the world war for their service to the nation and sacrifice they made to serve."

Young School Girl is Criminally Assaulted

(United Press)

Huron, S. D., June 11—The sheriff and county attorney today were investigating an alleged assault on a young school girl near here yesterday. A posse that searched the woods for hours for the assailant failed to find any trace of him. The girl described him as a dark man, powerful and heavy set. She was driving along a country road when the man approached her and threatened her with a revolver. When she resisted his advances, he beat her with his revolver and assaulted her. She is not in as serious condition.

Expect to Arrest Girl's Assailant

Crookston, June 11—Authorities expected to arrest here today the man who assaulted Katie Dubois, 17 year old farmer's daughter living near Angus. The man beat the girl on the head with a butcher knife cutting his own hand badly in the struggle. The girl was weak from loss of blood but is recovering. A posse scoured the country for the assailant.

May be Murderer

Fargo, June 11—Police were anxiously awaiting the expected capture of a Crookston assailant flend today believing finger prints may prove he is the murderer of Marie Wick, who was assaulted and killed by a moron here.

British and Polish Troops Clash in Silesia

(United Press)

Oppeln, Upper Silesia, June 11—British soldiers and Polish irregulars clashed near Malaplane late yesterday, according to reports received here today.

The British detachment was ambushed, but fought its way out of the trap with only "minor casualties." No estimate was made of the casualties suffered by the Poles, who fled after the British had taken the initiative. The effect the incident would have on the general situation could not be ascertained at the allied headquarters.

FATHER SHOTS SON WHILE SLEEPING

(United Press)

Des Moines, Iowa, June 11—R. M. West entered the bedroom of his 18 year old son, Myron, early today and shot him dead with a rifle while he slept. The father, 50, was thought temporarily insane. He had been suffering from lung trouble and feared he would die of tuberculosis.

Stock Broker is Charged with Forgery

(United Press)

Minneapolis, June 10—Frank Hurley, manager of the Minneapolis branch of the Shearson-Hammill & Company, stock brokers until recently, was expected to be arrested here today charged with forgery. A warrant sworn to by a New York representative of the firm, accused Hurley of forging his name to a $500 draft. The firm will close its offices in New York, St. Paul and Winnipeg June 30. It is understood this charge was not the only financial incident questioned.

SECY. DENBY ORDERS ADM. SIMS HOME

(By United Press)

Washington, June 11—Secretary of the Navy Denby today ordered Admiral Sims to return to this country and report to him immediately.

Denby sent the following cablegram to Sims:

"Remainder of leave revoked. You will return to the United States immediately and report at once in person to the secretary of the navy."

Denby sent his cablegram before receiving any reply from Sims to a previous message directing the admiral to advise the navy department whether his remarks before the English speaking union had been correctly quoted.

Some navy officers believe that Denby sent his cablegram because he was angered at the delay in receiving Sims' reply to his first message, and because Sims has continued making speeches.

What action Denby will take when Sims reaches Washington was a subject for speculation. It was believed the least punishment would be a severe reprimand.

Josephus Opinion Would be Hot

Raleigh, N. C., June 11—"Any remark I might make concerning Admiral Sims' speech in London would have to be printed on asbestos paper", Josephus Daniels, former secretary of the navy declared today.

"Sims is capable and dashing, but he is obsessed with vanity. He has lost a number of his perspectives."

Dry Enforcement Bill Passes Wisconsin Senate

(United Press)

Madison, Wis., June 11—Governor Blaine's dry enforcement bill, amended to strike out home brew privileges, was passed by the senate today by a vote of 20 to 10.

LANDIS CHOSEN AS ARBITRATOR IN WAGE DISPUTE

BETWEEN THE BUILDING TRADE WORKERS AND CONTRACTORS IN CHICAGO

(United Press)

Chicago, June 11—K. M. Landis had another job today.

The federal judge and high commissioner of baseball, was chosen to act as arbitrator in the building trade lockout here which has thrown thirty thousand men out of work and caused twenty million dollars worth of building to halt in the last five weeks.

Building trade workers were locked out when they refused to take a twenty per cent wage cut. They returned to work today pending the settlement to be made by Judge Landis.

Woman Falls Thirteen Floors to Instant Death

(By United Press)

Chicago, June 11—Miss Alice R. Murphy, 37, was instantly killed today when she plunged down from the 13th floor of the Stock Exchange building. She crashed through the skylight of an office on the fourth floor. Police could not determine whether it was an accident or with suicidal intent.

LATE BULLETINS

No Amendments Allowed

Washington, June 11—Blocking of all amendments to the Porter peace resolution was approved in the house today by a very strict partisan vote. The resolution will be voted until 4:30 Monday afternoon when it must be approved or rejected in the form in which it was reported from the foreign affairs committee. The vote on the rule followed a sharp partisan debate.

Padded Pay Roll

Chicago, June 11—Secret service agents left Chicago today for Milwaukee to take Percy Douglas to Camp Grant, Illinois, where he is said to be wanted in connection with an alleged payroll scheme. Douglas is alleged to have defrauded the government out of a considerable amount of money by paying soldiers that were never in the army.

Livestock Market Uneven During Week

(By United Press)

South St. Paul, June 11—Week end receipts at this market were light, totalling only five cars. The bulk of the light run consisted of hogs. They sold steady to strong with Friday's average. The range was $7.00 to $8, and the bulk sold at $7.50 to $8.00. Cattle trade for the week has been uneven. Better grade yearling steers butcher she stock and bulls were mostly steady. Heavy beef steers and common light heifers sold steady to twenty-five cents lower. Grass cows, canners and cutters and stock cattle closed twenty-five cents to fifty cents lower. Veal calves advanced fifty cents. Lambs are about fifty cents more for the week with sheep mostly steady.

LONGER SKIRTS DECREED FOR FALL

BY THE CLEVELAND GARMENT MANUFACTURERS ASSOCIATION AT STYLE SHOW

(By United Press)

Cleveland, June 10—They are going to wear 'em longer next fall.

But don't get downhearted men, skirts will only be an inch longer.

The Cleveland garment manufacturers association now conducting a style show here has decreed this.

The direct influence is seen in coats, suits and dresses now being shown for fall delivery. There is a dash of orient in the trimming. Lots of embroidery will be stylish. Coats, suits and dresses will be embroidered in gray leather, silk thread trimming and some fringes.

Suit coats will be nearly to the hem of the skirts. Shawl collars will give way to a small choker standing collar. Navy, black, brown and taupe will be the popular colors.

CHILD'S BODY IS FOUND BURIED IN NEGRO SHACK

DISAPPEARED EVENING OF JUNE 4—THROAT WAS CUT—ABDOMEN SLASHED

(United Press)

Morrestown, N. J., June 11—The body of Mathilda Russo, seven, who disappeared the evening of June 4 was found today buried in the dirt floor of the home of Louis Lively, a negro.

The negro's home was next door to that of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Russo, parents of the child.

Lively was being sought in the swamp lands of southern New Jersey to which he was believed to have fled. His wife was taken into custody, although officials said there apparently was no suspicion against her. The little girl's throat was cut and there was a long slash in her abdomen. Her head was bruised. The body was nude and her clothing has not been found. The body was three feet below the surface.

Mathilda was last seen between 7 and 8 o'clock in the evening last Saturday. Her mother heard a child scream, but paid little attention as she had not yet missed the child. Late that night Russo, who is a tailor, notified the police, but his wife neglected to tell them of the scream.

Other Lands, Other Ways.

Mother and I were traveling abroad and as we had a compartment to ourselves one day, we put our bags in the seats. At one stop a man boarded the train and stood in the doorway of our compartment, gazing at us and then at our luggage. I removed it. He entered, seated himself, and gazed his gaze to me, making me most uncomfortable. In the course of fifteen minutes his head rested on my shoulder. I jumped up. I couldn't remonstrate as I didn't speak his language, so I went out into the passageway and found the guard, who assured me that the man would be removed. I have been informed since, by people who know more about the customs abroad than I do, that by removing my bags from the seat I gave the man a direct invitation to flirt. —Chicago Tribune.

Whale Hide for Tire.

The leading novelty at the recent automobile show at Seattle, Wash., was a tire made from the hide of a Pacific coast whale. Except for its pliable nature and a light red color none would have suspected it being other than the rubber product.

At the tannery where it was turned out it was said that such tires can be manufactured at one-fourth the cost of those of rubber. The hides of shark, wolf fish and whales can be used. As to the supply of these fishes it was assured auto owners that it is inexhaustible.

Another assurance was given to the doubting ones in that a single whale skin will produce over 500 standard tires.

Primitive Implement Is Still Employed in Peru.

Ancient System of Cultivation Found Sufficient to Produce All Crops the Country Needs.

In the intermediate or temperate valleys of the eastern Andes, at altitudes between 5,000 and 11,000 feet, agriculture was of the terrace system, which the ancient Peruvians carried to a higher development than any other people, says a report of the Smithsonian institution. Hundreds of square miles of land were reclaimed by straightening rivers, walling, filling leveling and covering with a deep layer of fine soil. All of these artificial lands had also to be irrigated, often by carrying the water channels for many miles through craggy mountains or along precipitous slopes. After being cropped with maize continuously for centuries the terrace farms are still fertile and have enabled millions of people to live in a region that in its natural condition could have been of no use for agricultural purposes.

In still higher valleys, at altitudes of from 11,000 to 14,000 feet, the climate is colder, moisture is more abundant and the slopes are more gentle. There is less need of terracing or irrigation, but the alpine grasses and other small plants form a dense, fibrous turf, a condition like that of northern countries where the plow is the basic implement of agriculture. The farming of the mountain grass lands was done by human labor, facilitated by peculiar implement for breaking the sod.

The Peruvian foot plow consists of a rather stout wooden handle between five and six feet long, shod, as in modern times, by an iron point about three inches wide and two or three times as long. On the left side, just above the iron point is a footrest bound to the handle by leathern thongs. A few inches farther up is another rest, attached in the same way, projecting forward. This is for the left hand, which thus assists the foot in applying the weight of the body to pushing the implement into the soil.

Two "plowmen" work together, so that their plows enter the soil only a few inches apart under the same piece of sod, which is then pried up. A boy or woman kneels in front of each "team" to turn the sods as fast as they are loosened. In the rarefied atmosphere of the high mountains plowing is a very strenuous exercise and the work has to be done in short shifts. The tough sod disintegrates during the long growing season into a loose black soil. The cultivation of potatoes by this method is carried on to an altitude of more than 14,000 feet on the southern slopes.

The hardest varieties of potatoes are too bitter to be eaten in the fresh state, but are dried as a reserve stock of food after freezing, thawing and shredding out the juice. The natives are familiar with the names, habits and distinctive qualities of many varieties of potatoes, including several types that are very different from any known in the United States. The flavors, colors and textures of the different kinds of potatoes are as keenly appreciated among the high altitude people as the varieties of apples or peaches are with us. The firm textures and distinct flavors of the Peruvian varieties may be due in part to their being less affected by cooking, since water boils at lower temperatures in the high altitudes. Potatoes are not baked or roasted, fuel being too scarce.

Superstitious Montenegrins.
The daily life of the Montenegrin peasant is full of superstition. He is superstitious about the manner in which he rises in the morning, about what first meets his sight, how he dresses and washes, and whom he meets, of what food he eats, and the time and manner of serving throughout the entire day.

BIBLE SCHOOL TO CONVEENE JULY 20

School Board Grants Use of Three Rooms Each in Three Buildings for That Purpose

MISS LYDIA NELSON RESIGNS

Music Supervisor to be Succeeded by Miss Marion Opsahl—"Opportunity Room" Planned

All members were present at the school board meeting, Pres. George D. LaBar presiding.

A committee consisting of George E. Lowe, Rev. J. E. Cadwell and Wm. H. Wagner asked for the use of three rooms each in the Washington building, Whittier and Lowell for two weeks beginning June 20, to use the same as a religious school absolutely non-denominational for Bible study. The request was granted by the board. The board accepted the resignation of Miss Lydia Nelson, music supervisor.

A rider to be attached to the workmen's compensation policy was submitted by Henry I. Cohen, accepted and attached to the policy.

The building committee is to make a general inspection of all school buildings and ascertain what is absolutely required in the way of repairs. Bids are to be asked and opened at a regular or special meeting as ordered.

The fuel committee advised delay in regard to the purchase of 300 additional tons of soft coal until July.

Ingolf Dillan, a graduate of Brainerd high school and the University of Minnesota, was elected to become a member of the faculty. Miss Ellen Dillan and Miss Stendall were elected to grade school positions. Miss Marion Opsahl was elected music supervisor to succeed Miss Nelson.

The board contemplates opening an "opportunity room" next September in the Lowell building and this idea, which is given substantial state aid, will be extended to other schools. Miss Adair will probably be in charge of the room and during the summer months will take a special course to qualify for the position.

The board rescinded its action to borrow $10,000 from local banks and will be content with borrowing only $3,000 or whatever part of that is needed.

Baseball at the schools has become too strenuous a sport for the school property and on account of broken windows and other damage done, the sport by order of the board will be limited to scholars under the age of 13.

The question of continuing the deaf class was referred to the teachers committee and superintendent to report at the next meeting.

The finance committee is to retire $10,000 bonds coming due July 1.

The board took up the inspection of blue prints and specifications for the proposed new mill school. The secretary was authorized to advertise for bids to the erection of the building bids to be opened June 21. The secretary is to advertise the sale of the old mill school building by bids to be opened on June 21.

GYPSIES FEEL WAR'S EFFECTS

In Rumania They Are Said to Be Starving—Slaves to Ancient Superstitions.

Of the dozens of different races in Rumania, none is more picturesque than the gypsies. Like their prototypes in other lands they rove the country in great caravans, earning stray pennies by begging, dancing, playing and telling fortunes.

In the cities they sometimes earn their "bread and onions" by shining shoes, peddling lemonade or acting as porters.

The high cost of living, which has drawn tight the strings of every purse, has brought double hardships to these wanderers. No matter how well they play their violins, no matter what good fortunes they see in the stars for those about them, they find it hard to coax pennies from the empty pockets of the war-oppressed Rumanian people. Many of them have starved to death.

Among the gypsy women and girls are to be found some striking types of beauty. Dark of complexion and hair, with shining, long-lashed black eyes, they are a delight to look upon. They have not yet acquired the art of using cosmetic as their sisters in other countries do.

Superstition plays a large part in the life of the gypsy. One of the many ancient customs which will survive among the women is to beat themselves frightfully if one of their children dies. They believe that the death has been caused by an evil spirit having entered the body of the child as well as the mother, and that if they chastise themselves the spirit will depart.

One Rumanian gypsy woman whom a relief worker visited was apparently about to die from pneumonia. The doctor found numerous bruises all over her chest, and these had seriously aggravated her condition. On questioning her he learned her bruises were due to a beating she had given herself because one of her eight children had died.

Art of Conversation.

Conversation reaches its best when it leaves veils and convention behind it, when people speak face to face. It may be impossible to attain this with many; in this perfect sense there are only a few with whom we really talk, and we cannot always talk even with them. It is, of course, always easy to exchange words, but many words may be uttered and yet nothing have been said.

There are moments when the veils are thrust aside and the closest intercourse becomes for a brief time possible. It is then that people talk of the one thing they know best, of their own self, and the self's relation to life's mysteries; it is then, and then only, that we approach the absolute, the true, though still it may be only at a distance.

The last reserve between soul and soul is rarely surrendered; and there is always the reserve, the limitation, that lies in the nature of spoken words.—Arthur L. Salmon in Chicago Daily News.

Explanation of Name "Canada."

There are various theories as to how Canada came to be so called, one which meets with wide approval is that the word Canada is derived from an Indian word, "Kannatha," meaning a village or collection of huts, and it is supposed that Jacques Cartier, hearing this word used by the Indians with reference to their settlements, mistook its meaning, and applied it to the whole country.

SINCE NOV

At the Lyceum
What is said to be the funniest screen comedy that Owen Moore has yet appeared in is announced to appear at the Lyceum theatre Sunday, when this unique comedian will be seen in "The Poor Simp," his latest Selznick picture.

Mr. Moore and a cast of well-known favorite photoplayers romp Shakespeare's farce in a manner calculated to arouse the risibilities of even the most gloomy sort of person.

One of the funniest characters in the cast is Clarence, Moore's colored butler, who proves to be a comedy sensation, although it is his first appearance before the camera.

Larry Seaman

Larry Seaman is booked to appear at the Lyceum Monday and Tuesday in "The Stage Hand." Everybody who wishes to laugh, should be on and. Constance Binny is on the same program in "The Magic Cup."

Fatty Arbuckle Coming

The world's famous heavyweight comedian Fatty Arbuckle, is coming to the Lyceum next Wednesday and Thursday in a 5 reel comedy feature entitled "The Life of the Party."

At the New Park

Jackie Coogan at the New Park is one of those perfect pictures and one just made which pleases all both young and old.

Sunday "The Whip" is shown—this is another classical picture and a hummer. We believe it has more excitement, thrills and real acting than any which we have had recently.

Monday Wm. Farnum in "The Spoiler" is sure to guarantee a good show, this picture has played everywhere sometimes three or four times, here it will be shown for the first time in four years and judging from the comments will have a packed house.

School Building: Bids Close
June 21st, 1921

The undersigned hereby gives notice that sealed proposals for the erection of a grade school building including all labor and material, will be received by Board of Education of Brainerd, School District, until the 21st day of June, 1921 until the hour of 8 p. m.

All bids must be in strict accordance with the plans and specifications prepared by Foss & Foss, Architects, of St. Cloud, Minn., which may be seen at the office of L. H. Hohman, clerk, on or after June 8, 1921, and may also be seen on application to the architects.

Separate bids will be taken on the general construction on the plumbing, heating and ventilating and electric wiring.

A certified check for 5 per cent of the bid, payable to the order M. E. Morrison, Treasurer, must accompany each bid as a guaranty that the contract will be entered into and a bond furnished. Should the contractor fail to enter into a contract after being awarded same or fail to furnish satisfactory bond, then the sum of the certified check shall be forfeited to the above school board as liquidated damages. Checks will be returned to unsuccessful bidders immediately on letting the contract. The party to whom the contract is awarded will be required to give a satisfactory bond in the sum of full amount for the faithful performance of the contract.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.

SAYS BLIND WILL SEE
ACTUALLY WITH HANDS

Prof. Farigole Finds Visual Organs in Shape of Nerve Tips All Over Body.

That hands have the faculty of seeing things is a sensational discovery made by Prof. Louis Farigole of the University of Paris.

This famous scientist says that visual organs in the form of the tips of a certain kind of nerves are distributed all over the human body, and by persistent and systematic training can be developed to such a degree as to observe things by visual power. Having hypnotized a man, Professor Farigole blindfolded him so carefully that he could not see with his eyes, then asked the man to read the title of a newspaper.

The man in the trance read the title. Having done that, he said he was too tired to continue the experiment.

Five other persons could read while blindfolded.

The Lancet, a well-known medical magazine of London, says that the tips of hitherto unknown nerves have been discovered in the human skin, and another kind of nerve in the snout of a pig. The tips of these nerves, according to Professor Farigole, are microscopic eyes. He thinks science will discover a hitherto unknown faculty that enables the blind to see; that through education and training one will be able to see with the nerves of the hand instead of with the eyes.

LOOKS FAVORABLE FOR GAS PLANT

Large Meeting of 150 or More Gas Users Was Held at the Court House On Friday Evening

MAYOR F. E. LITTLE PRESIDED

Motion Carried Unanimously Favoring Use of Gas in Brainerd by Gas Users

There was a large and enthusiastic meeting of citizens at the court house on Friday evening to discuss the gas situation. They numbered at least 150 and the large proportion were anxious to see the gas plant re-established and this public utility in service again in Brainerd.

Mayor F. E. Little presided and in well chosen words explained the situation confronting city and council.

Fred W. Freese, of Fort Wayne, Indiana, a well known gas plant engineer and manufacturer, made a short statement in which he gave costs of gas production, valuation of the Brainerd plant and other statistics as published previously in the Dispatch.

Alderman H. F. Michael of the special council committee on the gas problem, gave figures on gas production and costs as received from the state public utilities commission and said the committee will continue its investigations.

Many questions were asked of Mr. Freese. For instance, about service interruptions. He said any plant which interrupted service for a day or more could not under any circumstances be considered as being handled properly. He mentioned plants in which he was interested in operating, where gas was never shut down for a minute in ten years running.

The mass meeting took no stand as based on a standard cost and on any certain rate. The sliding to advance or recede as costs of materials and labor rose or fell was discussed.

A motion was carried unanimously when Mr. Hurley asked:

"All in favor of gas will please rise."

And practically the whole mass meeting rose and indicated its approval of having this public utility re-established.

The special council committee will continue its negotiations and upon the conclusion of conferences with Mr. Freese there will be reported to the whole council an ordinance covering the gas utility.

Mr. Freese, mentioning costs of operation, later said the plant at the start would have a payroll of at least $800 month counting men at plant and office, with a minimum of at least $600.

BRAINERD COUNTRY CLUB

Is Named of New Golf Club Recently Organized Here—Membership of 100 Desired

The citizens of Brainerd who have shown their interest in the movement to form a golf club have chosen a name for the organization. It is to be known as the Brainerd Country Club. The land secured for the golf course is that which was owned by the Gross brothers lying just west of the M. & I. railway tracks and north of the road leading to Staples.

A thorough canvass of the city is being made by a strong membership committee to bring the membership list up to one hundred names. With that number to start with the golf enthusiasts feel that a flourishing club would result. A grounds committee has been appointed and active work has been started on the layout of the course. The recent wet weather has hindered the progress of getting the grounds in shape.

Tom Varden, professional golf instructor of the White Bear Yacht and Golf club, was employed to choose a site for, and lay out, a course. He visited several tracts of land and his choice of sites was the Gross property where he staked out a nine-hole course. Mr. Varden states that of the thirty sites which he had visited this season the site chosen was the best in his estimation. Upon his recommendation, the Brainerd Country Club secured the Gross land.

The advantages of such a club are numerous. It advertises the city, provides a pleasing recreation for young and old and develops sociability among people. Playing golf is attractive to both sexes, which means that many entertaining moments are in store for those who take up the game. Reports from over the United States and Canada are that the game of golf is exceedingly popular. Courses are crowded everywhere.

On Monday evening, June 13th, a very important meeting of the Brainerd Country Club will take place at the Chamber of Commerce rooms. Members are urged to come with their entrance fee so that a permanent organization may be perfected.

TRAINED ANIMAL DISPLAY

Baby Elephants, Tiny Ponies, Big Dogs In Clever Stunts in Rhoda Royal Circus

In one of the trained animal displays with the Rhoda Royal circus, which the Elks will bring to Brainerd for the Fourth of July celebration, baby elephants, tiny ponies and big dogs give a remarkable illustration of what can be accomplished by skill and kindness in training of dumb animals. These three dissimilar animal groups go through their clever stunts with the precision of soldiers on parade, and with an eagerness that suggests that they actually enjoy their work.

There's really going to be a lot to see at the big professional show. The Stickneys, known the world over as wonderful bareback riders, will be in one of the rings; Frederick Collier also a rider of note, will be in another and Don Darragh, an English equestrian, will be seen in the third ring.

And then there will be clowns—funny ones too and contortionists, pretty girls in scary mid-air whirls on the flying trapeze, men and women who hang by their teeth and lots of other thrills. There will be miniature mules that buck under the weight of their riders just like western bronchos; ponies that go spinning on a whirling table; monkeys that ride dogs and dogs that ride on ponies and an entire congress of aerial butterfly dancers.

FOUND THE BODY

Peter Fourre Diving Repeatedly in Boom Lake Recovered Drowned Body of Henry Nordstrom

Diving repeatedly in Boom lake Thursday night, Peter Fourre at length recovered the body of Henry Nordstrom, age 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Nordstrom. The bottom is muddy in places and the river has risen, making recovery of the remains a difficult problem. It was dark when Mr. Fourre's efforts were at last rewarded.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been concluded. Relatives are coming from Sioux Falls, S. D., and other places.

F. E. LITTLE,
Mayor.

Electricity and Chinese Demons.

Word has come from Shanghai that employees of the China Electric company recently called in a native priest to drive away the demon in an electric buzz saw which had cut off two of the operator's fingers. After the ceremony the workmen returned to their tasks contentedly. The manager of the plant felt that, despite the superstition displayed, these Chinese workmen were accepting electricity in their own way.—North American.

Take a Victrola with you wherever you go this summer

In all the world there is no other musical instrument that can give so much real pleasure, to so many people, for so little money, as the Victrola. Any one of the small portable Victrolas will transform, at a moment's notice, the camp in the wilderness into an opera house; the canoe or yacht into a floating palace of song; the porch of the summer cottage or club into a private ballroom; and, best of all, it will help you to live and to forget the heat and cares of the day in the sweltering city. You take no risk with a Victrola; it will give you the same Caruso, Galli-Curci, Heifetz, the selfsame orchestras and bands that you heard last winter on the concert and operatic stages. Away or at home, this vast treasure of music is yours. Let us help you choose an inexpensive summer outfit.

Alaskan Herder With Reindeer.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

A new meat has been reaching American tables during the last few years, a food that as yet comparatively few American palates have had the opportunity to compare with their familiar roast beef, mutton and pork. It is the meat of reindeer, and it comes not from a foreign country but from our own Alaska.

Within a single generation, "Cupid" and "Vixen" and "Comet" and "Prancer," those semi-mythological companions of ruddy Saint Nick which spring into action with the very first remembered syllables of the famous Christmas poem, have become the staple live stock for the Far Northwest of the American continent. Santa Claus may use a motor truck or even an airplane in making his city deliveries, but in Alaska the reindeer is coming into its own.

In Europe and Asia the reindeer was domesticated in prehistoric times. Not so in America, where this species of the deer family, the Cervidae, were known as caribou, and are still so known, to distinguish them from the domesticated and imported animal.

The first importation, consisting of only 162 reindeer, was landed at Teller, Alaska, on Independence day, 1892. During that year and the decade following, 1,118 more were imported from Siberia and landed on the shores of Port Clarence bay. The reindeer imported from Norway in 1898 were all draft animals, steers, and are now extinct.

From the outset the deer thrived, and as the number increased, other herds were formed from the mother herd at Teller. Roaming the frozen wastes north and south, from Point Barrow to the Alaskan peninsula, there are today more than a hundred herds, aggregating about 100,000 deer. It is estimated that during this period more than 100,000 have been killed for food and skins; so that in less than thirty years the increase has been more than two hundred fold.

Although the Alaskan reindeer industry is still in its infancy, it is rapidly becoming firmly established. The reindeer is not, however, highly prolific. The female deer usually gives birth to but one fawn a year, and if there are twins, one of the young is likely to die.

Reasons for Rapid Increase.

The rapid increase is due to two facts: One is the remarkable hardihood of the fawns, which only a few hours after birth are strong and fleet of foot. The contrast between the self-reliant reindeer fawn and the weak, knobby-kneed colt or calf is striking and has much to do with the tendency of reindeer herds to increase rapidly in spite of a low birth rate. As the social worker would say, the infant mortality is slight.

The other factor in the rapid increase, and an illustration of the fact that early fecundity is not entirely a tropical trait, is the remarkable fact that yearling reindeer frequently reproduce.

The reindeer has been aptly named. Of all ungulate, ruminant, and gregarious animals, it is one of the most particular in the selection of its food. It pastures during the summer on tender mosses, lichens, mushrooms, algae, and grasses. Its typical home is Lapland. In the Lapp tongue the word "reindeer" means an animal that pastures. During the long winter the deer subsists entirely upon moss, which abounds on the vast tundras and hills of Alaska, so that the deerman has almost unlimited grazing land for his herds.

Plenty of Moss for Food.

It has been estimated that there are 200,000 square miles of this dry, coral-like moss in Alaska—enough grazing land for 5,000,000 deer. This class of pasturage is suitable for no other animal except, it may be, the musk-ox; hence these thousands of square miles of Arctic Alaska, were it not for the reindeer, would prove practically valueless and could not be permanently inhabited.

There is only one drawback to this calculation: Inevitably the reindeer seek the coast in summer, to escape the swarms of mosquitoes and to lick up the salt deposited by the ocean waters. The Lapps have a saying that "mosquitoes make the best herders in summer time."

It is believed, however, that if salt can be supplied in sufficient quantity inland, and if the deer can be taken to the hills, where land breezes will serve the same purpose as the sea winds in blowing away the mosquitoes, the animals can be persuaded to overcome their inland instinct for a seaside excursion in summer.

Eskimos Own Most of Them.
Eskimos own approximately 70 per cent of all the deer in Alaska, and the bureau of education has been much handicapped by the smallness of the $5,000 annual appropriation granted in recent years to care for the industry. Instruct herders, and administer general supervision over herds which cover a stretch of territory more than a thousand miles in extent.

Of late years the industry has been taken up by a number of white men as a private enterprise. No objection to their entering the reindeer field has been raised on the part of government officials, as the development of outside markets for reindeer meat, skins, and by-products, will thereby be promoted; but, in order to protect the Eskimo, a rule has been established that female deer may not be purchased from the natives.

A number of Lapps, originally employed by the government to teach the Eskimos the occupation of herding, were permitted to borrow not to exceed 100 deer each. In five years they were to return a like number, keeping the increase. From one such loan in 1901 a count of 800 was made in 1908. During that year 800 animals were equally divided into two herds, one of which now numbers not less than 10,000.

The meat of the deer is not "gamey" and yet there is a suggestion of venison in its flavor. It has been aptly described as having the juiciness of beef and the delicacy and tenderness of venison. The animal is butchered by modern methods, after which the carcass is frozen with the hide on and shipped to distributing points in the states, principally Seattle and Minneapolis. There it is kept in cold storage until sold for food.

Female deer are seldom killed. Of the males a certain number are set aside for breeding purposes and the rest are fattened as steers. The average life of a deer is about 15 years, but steers are butchered when three years old.

Camel of the Arctic Region.

The reindeer has been called the camel of the Far North. It serves as a beast of burden, and is to the nomad of the north what the camel is to the nomad of the southern desert. Like unto its southern "brother" that "lives on its hump," the reindeer draws on its supply of fat in times of want. For long-distance travel the Eskimo prefers the reindeer to dogs, as the former finds its own feed; not so the dogs.

Surprising records have been made in long-distance travel and also in speed tests. Indeed, for short distances, the deer can outrun the dog or horse.

The usual rate of travel on long-distance excursions should be from 25 to 35 miles a day, if the welfare of the deer is considered. Even then the deer can only be employed continuously in that fashion for 15 to 17 days. While traveling it has no chance to graze. When compelled to do this at night it loses sleep. In consequence the store of fat which encases its body and furnishes reserve food and strength becomes exhausted.

The Eskimo never prods or crowds the deer after it indicates its desire to quit the journey. He unharnesses it and leaves it to find its way back to its herd, which it usually succeeds in doing. If it does not succeed in this, it is likely to join another herd.

The ownership of reindeer is indicated by ear-marks. By marking the ears the reindeer of the various herds are distinguished, and annually there is a general reassignment of animals to their owners.

BONUS MEASURE WILL BE PASSED

CONGRESSIONAL LEADERS HAVE SO ASSURED SPOKESMEN OF SOLDIER ORGANIZATIONS.

WHY THE LEGION URGED IT

Men Returned From Active Service to Find Others Who Avoided It Holding the Good Positions—Field Officers Don't Participate.

By EDWARD B. CLARK.

Washington.—Several spokesmen for the ex-service men have pleaded the cause of bonus legislation before the special committee of the senate appointed to give the subject consideration. The meetings have been executive and therefore secret.

In a general way it is known that congressional leaders, irrespective of party or of the sections of the country which they represent, have given the spokesmen for the American Legion and other soldier organizations an assurance that the bonus legislation will pass at this session.

Bonus legislation for former service men has been the cause of controversy in the ranks of the former soldiers, and in the ranks of the congressmen. The people of the country generally also have been interested in the subject, and have taken sides according to their views. It is probable that a good many Americans have refrained from saying what they really think about the bonus proposition because of the feeling that to oppose it might bring to them the charge of lack of sympathy with the men who fought.

The American Legion itself has been in part divided in sentiment on the matter of the bonus. Finally the Legion swung into line in behalf of the legislation and its leaders have been earnest in their attempts to secure its passage. They are going to succeed.

From everything that one hears on the subject of the bonus from any point of view, it can be known that virtually all the American people always have been in favor of bonus legislation provided the bonus was to be given to the men who need it. There never has seemed to be any urgent demand anywhere that money should be given to soldiers who served but who are well-to-do in the world and have no pinching need of the money.

For All Below Rank of Major.
There are thousands, and perhaps hundreds of thousands, of ex-service men who need the money and as it has been found absolutely impossible to determine definitely those who need it and those who do not need it, the bonus is to go to all alike with the exception that men who hold rank above that of captains in the service cannot benefit by the bonus, or by any of the alternative beneficial propositions which will be included in the legislation.

The one thing which more than anything else determined the Legion to stand for the bonus provision in the legislative act for assistance to the former soldiers, and which has moved congress to the same course, is that so many young Americans avoided service through one plea or another and succeeded in securing jobs and occupations which were supposed to be vital to the prosecution of the war. These men received big pay and were not compelled to suffer any of the hardships of the camp life, or any of the perils of the fighting life. The man who went into camp, or went to the front, received his $30 or $35 a month as the case might be, and when he came back into civil life found the "experts" who had staid at home with pockets well lined and with jobs well in hand.

Unjust to Many Officers.

Congress has seen fit to limit the provisions of the act to aid the former soldiers to the men whose rank in the service was below that of major. Therefore only captains, lieutenants, noncommissioned officers and privates can benefit by any of the provisions of the law.

There are some members of congress and hundreds of thousands of service men, if not all of them, who know that this limitation will work an injustice in many cases. It did not follow because a man was a major or a lieutenant colonel, or a colonel, that he came out of the war any better off in a financial way than the men of the lower ranks.

If the law is passed there are some dreds if not thousands of former field officers of the National army who are in as sore need of the aid granted under the legislation as are any of the men whom they ranked while in the army.

The average age of the field officers, that is, majors, lieutenant colonels and colonels, was of course greater than that of the men below them in rank. Men who were chosen for the higher commands were in many instances men who had made their way to good paying positions in civilian life, but who willingly gave them up to serve their country. The expenses of an officer in the war were many and heavy. The sacrifices that the field officers made to enter the war also were many and heavy, and many of them were unable to return to their old jobs when the war was over.

It matters little now, perhaps, what the former field officers say about the matter. All of them are to be cut from the provisions of the act for soldier aid.

NIGHT RIDERS IN NORTH ALABAMA

Trouble Is Outgrowth of Farm Tenants' Organization.

CAUSE A REIGN OF TERROR

Recalcitrants Are Dragged From Their Homes and Beaten—Tables Turned on the "Riders" When They Went to Discipline Harry McGowan—Union Has for Purpose the Fixing of the Rental Scale for Farms.

"Night riders" have caused a reign of terror in north Alabama. The trouble is the outgrowth of the organization of a "tenants' union," having for its purpose the fixing of a rental scale, which calls for one-third of the corn and one-fourth of the cotton crops to the landowner. Refusal of any tenant farmer to join the union or obey its mandates brings swift punishment. Many have been dragged from their homes and unmercifully flogged.

Conditions in Jackson county ("High Jackson") are declared to be worse than during the dark days of reconstruction following the Civil war. No farmer leaves his home without a shotgun under his arm and probably a .45 Colt on his hip. "Daytime or dark," to quote Mayor Claude Timberlake of Stevenson, the storm center of the trouble, "the farmers go armed, and they carry their shotguns on the streets of the towns as well as on the lonely country roads."

Governor Kilby has sent 20 special officers into Jackson county, but their presence seemed to have no effect, and appeals for state militia have been turned down. The county officials and citizens have declared that unless the state takes steps a citizen army will go on the warpath with instructions to shoot to kill.

"Caught a Tartar."
While there had been sporadic outbreaks of night riding during which farmers around Scottsboro, Stevenson and Bridgeport had been roughly handled, the trouble reached a climax on February 24, when a band of armed and coated horsemen raided the home of Harry McGowan, near Bridgeport. Tenant farmers in this section had received repeated warnings to join the union, and in anticipation of a visit from the night marauders McGowan had asked three neighbors to join him in protecting his home. On the night scheduled McGowan and his friends were on guard, and when a party of masked men appeared and demanded that McGowan come out the four farmers opened fire, which was returned by the night riders, about forty shots being exchanged. John Brown, one of the attackers, was wounded and captured, and later Jodie Beavers, another member of the band, was captured, and the two were taken to jail at Scottsboro. The attack on McGowan so aroused his neighbors and friends that the prisoners were removed to Huntsville for safekeeping.

A few nights later the night riders descended on the home of Silas Blevins, a tenant farmer near Stevenson, and five others, who were taken out and beaten.

Called Off.

Following these outrages state and county officers made a raid into the Fabius section, across the Tennessee river from Stevenson, and arrested four men identified as night riders and placed them in jail at Stevenson.

The officers were assisted by six citizens, and the arrests led to one of the most sinister phases of the trouble yet developed. Enraged because the citizens had lent their aid in rounding up the band, 300 armed riders gathered at Widow's Bar, on the Tennessee river, near Stevenson, with the avowed intention of storming the town, lynching the six citizens and liberating the prisoners. Warning was sent to Stevenson and a posse of a hundred determined men was organized. The night riders thereupon called off their expedition.

Next day officers raided the Fabius section, the mountain stronghold of the night riders, and arrested thirteen, four of whom were placed in jail at once, but before the other nine could be brought in the captors were obliged to fortify themselves in a farmhouse and send for reinforcements.

There are now more than twenty men under arrest in connection with night riding activities, and the officers are continuing the raids.

While leaders of the tenants' union have repeatedly denied any connection with the night riding, and have condemned lawlessness, it is said that the members who reside in the Fabius territory refused to be controlled. This section is reported to be a center for moonshiners, who ply their trade in the fastnesses of Sand mountain and they are bringing the tenants' union into ill repute.

Parents Away; Four Children Burn.

While Mr. and Mrs. John Andrews of Sault St. Marie, Mich., were attending a party, their four children, two to eight years old, were smothered to death by smoke from a small fire.

Got Back Pay When Mistress Died.

Forty-five years of service without wages was rewarded in a bequest of $12,000 to Gertrude Appoldt of White Plains, N. Y., who nursed Harriet L. Clark during a long illness.

Merchandising Road to Millions.

A careful statistician recently made a list of 4,047 American millionaires and what each made his money in. The result showed that general merchandising is the best road to millions in the United States, and presumably everywhere else, too.

Old Forms of Currency.

All evidence leads to the conclusion that the knife money of China is the oldest of all moneys, the ramensiks of India, bricks of Babylon, ring money of Egypt and the punched coins of Asia Minor following successively in the order of time.

THE CREPE DE CHINE SLIP

Garment Chief Feature of Negligees Plaited and Shirred
With Lace Top.

Negligees are often composed of a crepe de chine slip, plaited or shirred with a lace top and draped with a short coat of matching georgette crepe, with the same lace around the edges. The same two materials are combined in a different way in a model of crepe de chine, with georgette crepe sleeves set in and georgette finishing ruffles. Other coatlike models of crepe de chine are made with self ruffles for a finish, and slip-over styles are finished with simple embroidery. Coral stitching on blue gives a pleasing effect on a model which can be worn closed at the neck or turned back in revers.

A breakfast coat made of flesh and orchid changeable satin has a narrow shawl collar with ruffles made in a double scalloped arrangement of deeper orchid georgette placed around the sleeves and around the bottom of the coat. This coat fastens at one side, the girde passing around and tying at the other side. Other styles are made with self material ruffles and cording, the ruffles being stitched in tinsel, which gives a pretty touch.

Some taffeta breakfast coats are plaited, cut plain with short kimono sleeves at top, and have the wide-plaited section applied at a low hip-line. Sometimes variety is given by placing the plaits at the front and sides, leaving the back plain. The collar and sleeve ruffles are tightly plaited.
